"No garden can really be too small to hold a peony. Had I but four square feet of ground at my disposal, I would plant a peony in the centre and proceed to worship."

Mrs. Edward Harding in "Peonies in the Little Garden."

Monsieur Henri Correvon, of Switzerland, world-famous horticulturist and lecturer, speaking before The Seattle Garden Club, on March 22, 1926, declared the Pacific Northwest "a bontanist's paradise."

"Never have I seen such plant growth as I have found in the Northwest. In no country in the world are there such natural advantages for the growth of flowers and plants of all kinds."

SILVER MEDAL

June 2, 1926, at Seattle, we were awarded the Silver Medal of The American Peony Society, for 100 named varieties of double-flowered Peonies, exhibited on that day under the auspices of the Peony Department of The Seattle Rose Society.

PREPAID DELIVERY CHARGES

Delivery charges will be prepaid to any point in the United States on all orders amounting to $3.00 and upwards, for Peonies, and $1.00 and upwards for Irises and Regal Lilies.

TERMS:

Cash with the order, or, if you are ordering peonies, you may if you prefer, remit 25 per cent. with order and balance on or before Sept. 1st. A cash discount of 10 per cent. will be allowed on orders amounting to $50 and upwards, and 15 per cent. on orders of $100 or more, but no discounts can be allowed on the special Group Collections offered at the end of the list.

Prices herein quoted are as low as the size, quality and variety of root will permit, and supersede those quoted in all previous lists.

PLANTING:

We lift our roots of the Peony early in September and begin shipping at once. Planting is best done in September, October or November, before the ground has become cold, though peonies may be successfully grown if planted at any time before the ground freezes. On the Pacific Coast they may be planted at any time during the winter or in the very early spring, but if planted in the months named they will do better the first year.

The ground should be thoroughly spaded at least 18 inches deep and the root carefully placed in good, rich, mellow soil, preferably in full sunshine, though the peony will do fairly well in shade for a part of the day. Dig a good-size hole, allow no manure or other fertilizer of any kind to come in direct contact with any part of the root. It should be carefully firmed in the soil so that the eyes or sprouts will be about two inches below the general level of the ground after the soil has settled. Deep planting is responsible for many peonies failing to bloom. Keep the ground cultivated as for potatoes or corn; never allow the soil to bake. A mulch of leaves, hay, straw, litter of any kind, or lawn-clippings, is beneficial. If you live where the ground freezes, then, for the first winter only, mulch the ground over the roots to keep them from being thrown out by the action of the frost. Remove the mulch very early in the spring. Don't allow grass to grow close to the plants, nor place the roots close to trees, strong-growing shrubs, or buildings.

Great care will be taken to send stock true to name, but sometimes errors will occur, and it is expressly understood that in case of mistake in variety sent our liability will be limited to replacement with the true variety, or refund of amount paid.

SIZE OF ROOTS:

We offer three to five-eye divisions in all varieties; and in the higher-priced varieties two-eye divisions also, at half-price. To the beginner we strongly urge that the order be for the larger size roots, as they respond much more quickly and if planted in September, or early October, almost invariably bloom the next June. Very many of the less expensive varieties are just as good in every way as the newer and consequently higher priced varieties, and with hardly an exception they are fragrant.

We have carefully selected groups of high-grade and extremely attractive kinds at very moderate cost, and have placed them at the end of this list. Be perfectly sure that no mistake can be made in choosing any of these several groups. Our constant effort will be to furnish plants with good roots in either size offered. That we have thus far succeeded in this endeavor will be seen from the appreciative letters printed herein. It should be borne in mind that the roots of some varieties are never as large as others, just as some of the plants themselves are smaller than others. If you ever receive an unsatisfactory root from us, send it back immediately and we will refund your money. We never substitute unless the customer authorizes it.

NOVELTIES AND SCARCE VARIETIES OF QUALITY

SIZE OF ROOT:

While we earnestly recommend a large division of from three to five eyes, rather than a small division, because from a long experience we have learned that the former will prove much stronger, will bloom earlier and in many ways will better please and satisfy than the weaker root, yet we realize that there are those who are willing to take the risk and suffer the delay in growth and bloom that always accompany the planting of the smaller size, and to accommodate such, we will sell a two-eye division of any of the "Novelties and Scarce Varieties of Quality" listed in this section, at exactly one-half the price quoted below. The roots will be well-balanced, and should, if properly planted, eventually make good.

RATING:

The members of the American Peony Society in several votes, the last being in 1925, have placed their average estimate of the quality of the modern peony, based upon the figure 100 as representing the perfect peony. To the left of each variety name will be found the society's view of the comparative value of that variety. Thus, "Auguste Dessert" is rated at 87 out of a possible 100. It will be noticed that practically all of those we grow are above 80 points. The letter "E" means early; "M" mid-season and "L" late.

In addition to the foregoing novelties we are growing on practically all of the recent introductions, the new gold and silver-medal winners of the American Peony Society, and others of outstanding merit. Some of these we are not at liberty to offer for two or three years, and still others are so few in our gardens that we must wait another year to offer them.

Haller Lake, Wash., June 12, 1926.

"Of all the peonies that I have ever seen, yours are the finest. Planted in December, there were wonderful big blooms the following May. Out of 24 roots nearly all bloomed at that time. Some of these blooms were large enough for exhibition purposes. So, you see I did not get any of those little, dried-up roots that one so often buys in the stores and which are such disappointments at blooming time. I am so glad that I trusted to your judgment to pick them out for me, because I certainly got a choice collection. Even though the blooms are enormous, the stems are strong enough to hold them up. This is now the second summer of bloom and I am so enthused that I am ordering more roots. Your prices compare more than favorably with the best growers." (Mrs.) A. S.

STANDARD VARIETIES OF OUTSTANDING MERIT

The varieties listed below are among the world's very best, most beautiful and dependable varieties. When about seven hundred varieties were discarded by the American Peony Society, either because of inferior quality of bloom, or in many cases because they could not be depended upon to bloom at all, and some unscrupulous growers sold them in large numbers to nurseries, department stores, etc., to be unloaded upon an uninformed public at 25 and 50 cents each, a great injury was done to the reputation of all peonies. Such inferior kinds and non-bloomers are still sold to those who have not been informed, and every few days some lady comes to us and inquires why her peonies will not bloom, even after five years. Inquiry usually shows that they were bought, without a name, at a public market, or store, where perhaps a bushel of small pieces of roots, evidently chopped up with a spade, had been thrown into a tub, placed on the sidewalk, labeled "Peonies" and sold for maybe a quarter or half-dollar. Our peonies are carefully selected from the world's proven varieties, are carefully grown on until ready for sale, and when you get one of these you may depend upon getting a sterling variety that will bloom year after year, better and larger as the years pass by.

SOME ADVICE to the beginner: Don't buy the most expensive kinds at first. Invest according to your space and means in the list that follows, and you will be sure to become a Peony Fan. After you have become familiar with those you have started with and the best way to plant and care for them, then start in gradually with the newer and perhaps more expensive varieties, those that have a world-wide reputation for vigor and beauty, such as Therese, Solange, Judge Berry, etc., and you can make no mistake nor reap a heart-breaking disappointment.

FRAGRANCE

Practically all the varieties listed in this catalogue are fragrant; some having as much as the most fragrant rose. Hence, we do not mention fragrance specially, except in an occasional case where it is so marked as to demand it.

SIZE OF ROOTS

All varieties in the following list will be furnished in the large size, i. e., three to five-eye divisions or strong one-year plants, only. We cannot sell these in the smaller size, nor would we advise their purchase. We do not buy them ourselves, and we want you to have the same satisfaction that we get from planting good, strong roots, that will be sure to bloom, early and regularly, if once properly planted.

"I am very glad to advise you the shipment of peony roots reached me promptly and in condition that left nothing to be desired. * * * From all appearances distance means absolutely nothing to the receiver of such stock from you and next year I shall have no hesitancy on this score if anything you have to offer at that time tempts me to buy of you again." W. D. K.

TALL BEARDED IRIS

Plant in a sunny position. Soil should be made loose and friable, and it should be well drained. If you have to plant on level ground, without drainage, then plant on ridges, drawing the earth up from the sides, so that the ridge is about six inches above the general level of the soil. Just cover the rhizome. If the feeding roots are still living, carefully bury them in the soil under the rhizome. If the ground is dry when planting, give water for a few days and then stop. Thoroughly mix a handful of bone-meal and slaked lime in the soil before planting.

In the following list six rhizomes of one variety will be furnished for the price of four, and three for price of two, but the variety "Moa" is not included in this offer.

AN INVITATION !

Come out and see the Irises in bloom in May and the Peonies in June. The Gardens are on the South side of Haller Lake.

To reach the gardens from Seattle, go North on the brick highway, usually called the North Trunk Highway, to the northerly border of Washelli Cemetery; turn to the right—East—on the road between the cemetery and the greenhouses; go about one-quarter mile to the first cross-road; here turn North again and proceed about one-eighth of a mile, when you will reach the gardens at the intersection of the first cross-road.
